

The Nation's Child Protection System is Stretched Too Thin

The children on this page died at the hands of their caretakers. Between 2001 and 2007, 10,440 children met a similar fate according to federal data. The true number may be as high as 15,000 due to undercounting.

Congress can help stop the dying. Please...

1. Hold hearings on child abuse fatalities
2. Provide emergency funds to stop state cuts in child protection services
3. Adopt a national strategy to prevent child abuse and stop child deaths

We Can Do Better
